CONCERT BY MISS FARRAR

Andover Music Lovers Hear Geraldine Farrar Programme, One of Greatest Concert Artists in History

Miss Farrar's recital will doubtless stand out in the memory of all Andover music lovers as another gala occasion in Andover's musical life. The voice doubtless has not only its equals but its superiors, but Miss Farrar's artistry is second to none. And when such artistry is applied to a programme that is purely first-class from the first number to the last, a programme sung from beginning to end with virtually impeccable pitch, when these factors are united with a stage presence charming to behold, and a stage manner as graceful as her singing is artistic, one cannot help but feel that such evenings are rare indeed. It would be futile to endeavor to select for special comment particular numbers from such a feast where all was good. Those who from days gone by associate Miss Farrar with an interesting voice, a more interesting gown, and a still more interesting temperament, will have to revise their associations and substitute for La Geraldine, the capricious, a Liedersinger of the first rank, whose manner, as a critic observed, was that of "a great lady entertaining her friends in her own drawing room." No wonder another critic remarks: "Miss Farrar's return to the concert stage has caused something of a sensation in the musical world."

Christ Church Fellowship Meeting

The Young People's Fellowship of Christ church held its first meeting of the fall season Sunday evening in the parish house. The following new officers were in charge: President, Donald Dumont; vice president, Ida Grover; secretary, Annette Anderson; treasurer, Sumner Davis; chairman of study, John Monro; chairman of worship, Anne Swenson; chairman of fellowship, Beatrice Farnsworth; chairman of service, Minnie Valentine.

The following delegates at the Concord conference held last July reported on their experience at Concord: Sumner Davis, John Hilton, Doris Hilton, Donald Dumont and Annette Anderson.

John Hilton who has been in South Dakota all summer doing missionary work among the Indians gave a short talk on his experiences there. He returned early this week to South Dakota.

Four persons, each over ninety years old, whose ages totalled 368 years, were among those who registered as voters in Andover Wednesday.

Mrs. Rhoda W. Davis of 67 Salem street, Andover, was the oldest, being ninety-three years of age. Mrs. Davis is entitled to be considered one of the older residents of Andover not only on account of her age but also because she had resided in the town for between forty and fifty years. She enjoys the best of health, works around her home daily, and finds much pleasure in long automobile trips.

Mary Elizabeth Christmas Holt of Park street, ninety-two years of age, another one of the registrants, is also an old Andover resident.

Another ninety-two years old was Anna T. Byington of Ballardvale, a native of Hinesbury, Vt.

Hale Mason, still another nonagenarian registrant, is ninety-one years old and a native of Monroe, N. H. He first registered in 1860 and voted for Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Mason makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Sidney L. Curry of 17 Kenilworth street.

The registrars of voters had a busy session Wednesday from noon until 10 p. m., during which time 314 men and women registered to vote at the coming Presidential election. Of this number 222 were women and 92 were men. Precinct 1 had 157 names added; Precinct 2, Ballardvale, 31 names; Precinct 3, Shawheen Village 64 names; and Precinct 4, 64 names.

In Precinct 1, 117 women were registered against 40 men. In Precinct 2, 23 women against 8 men; Precinct 3, 40 women with 23 men; and Precinct 4, 42 women with 21 men.

With the large number registered during the past year the total vote of the town will now total nearly 5,000. On the last registration date previous to the Presidential election in 1924 over 400 names were added to the voting list.

Those who registered Wednesday follow:

PRECINCT 1, CENTER

REPERTORY THEATRE

For a second week, "S. S. Incorporated" the 1928 prize play, will be continued at the Repertory Theatre of Boston. "S. S. Incorporated" is an unusual play, a play impossible to compare with any other as it is unlike any other ever written. It is a dream play, as all the action between the epilogue and the prologue is the dream vision of one of the characters of the play, in which life in the distant future is seen. It is a daring play, a play written with imagination, and one that deals with vital points of interest to our present day existence. The characters of the play are supermen, with just that much more power for good or evil. The opening of the play is in an office in a tower building of some great city of the future. There are no floors, doors or windows, only radiating planes of existence. Figures clothed in colors of refracted light move swiftly through space. Much thought has been brought to bear upon this production at the Repertory and every artistic device of modern stagecraft is used to support the imagination. Not only is the staging unique but even the clothing and the characters lend themselves to novel treatment. Anvolut to the Boston stage will be the use of masks to emphasize the expressionistic and symbolic characters of some of the personages of the play. From the beginning to the end the play is packed with thrills, and the thrill seeker will find ample feat, while lovers of mystery will be more than satisfied. The cast for this production includes Olga Brikbeck, Katharine Warren, Edith Barrett, Robert Noble, Milton Owen, Thayer Roberts, Elmer Hall, Thomas Shearer, Cameron Matthews, William Mason and others. The masks for this production are the work of J. Andrew McFadden of Boston and Provincetown; the scenes are from original designs by Leland Wright, formerly of Walter Hampden's organization, and they have been executed by Roswell Snider. The whole has been produced under the personal direction of Henry Jewett.

"The Docks of New York" is the title of the Paramount picture starring George Bancroft which will be shown at the Metropolitan Theatre, Boston, the week beginning October 19th. The new picture done by the popular star is from an original screen story written by John Monk Saunders, celebrated author of "Wings" and "The Legion of the Condemned"; two aviation epics produced by Paramount which have swept the country by storm.

Joseph Von Sternberg, the well-known director, who teamed with Bancroft to fame when the two turned out "Underworld" also directed this picture. The two masters of their respective suit and tuxedo scenes to each other; hence the remarkable successes turned out by the pair. "The Drag Net" is a further example of the pair's work. B. P. Schulberg, General Manager of the Paramount studios, called Von Sternberg a "pure drama". He is enthusiastic over the work turned out.

An exceptionally fine supporting cast has been thrown around Bancroft in his recent picture. Betty Goggin, the featured supporting role. Her return to the Paramount fold in this picture is marked by a good characterization. Bacanova, the fiery Russian actress, has a prominent role, and adds another laurel to her rapidly increasing list. Clyde Cook, famed comedian, gives plenty of comedy relief, and Mitchell Walker, as the rough Third Engineer stands out with his work. Others in the cast are Guy Oliver, Gustav von Seyffertitz, May Foster and Lillian Worth. The picture is a slashing, gaudy drama of waterfront life.

Gene Rodemich and his popular Public Playhouse Band are presenting "Step On It," a Frank Cambria production. It is a record-breaking round-the-world story, and you are asked to come and let the bright spots with Ralph Rogers, Helen Wright, Bud and Jack Pearson, and the talented Felicia Sorel girls.

The work of October 26th, Ruth Elder, the first of the new Atlantic Coast Airlines flight will be seen at the Metropolitan Theatre in Richard Dix' newest Paramount picture, "Moran of the Marines". The story is the kind Dix does best. It has strong romance, a lot of laughs, and good comedy in it—worthwhile in its own right, melodramatic climax with airplane motors roaring and Marines coming on the double.

KEITH MEMORIAL THEATRE

The very latest addition to New England's major theatres is rapidly nearing completion and will soon open its doors to the public. New England. In Boston, on the traditional site of the old Boston Theatre, the B. F. Keith Memorial Theatre, built under the personal supervision of E. F. Albee, and assisted as a trustee by the memory of his friend and co-worker, Mr. B. F. Keith, the founder of vaudeville, has been under construction for the past three years.

There are many reasons, apart from its great beauty, why New Englanders should be especially interested in the new theatre. In a sense it is vaudeville's gift to the people of New England. It is located almost on the site of the building that housed the first Keith venture, the birthplace of vaudeville. It was built not only as a tribute to the late Mr. Keith, but also as a gesture of homage to the people of New England who, by their patronage and support, made possible the growth of vaudeville into a great institution.

The new theatre—"The World's Most Perfect Playhouse"—will show all New England how successfully major theatres have accomplished its purpose. Reckoned in money, the new playhouse cost more than $5,000,000. But money alone could not buy all of the things that have gone into its making. Mr. Albee himself, and his agents, have travelled all over the world seeking objects of art for the new building. And into the structure has gone all of the skill and experience of a corps of men who have built many of this country's finest theatres.

Those who control the destinies of major vaudeville have been particularly anxious that the B. F. Keith Memorial Theatre should be thrown open for the 1928-29 season. The recent merger of the Keith-Albee Circuit of the East, with the great Orpheum Circuit of Vaudeville Theatres, west of Chicago, has brought a new impetus into vaudeville throughout the country. Observers of the theatrical scene throughout the country state that the great strength displayed by the recently established "new era in vaudeville" is one of the most important developments of recent years. Keith-Albee-Orpheum recently opened several new and magnificent theatres, thus adding to the chain that already runs from Coast to Coast. None of these theatres, however, can be compared to the B. F. Keith Memorial Theatre. The opening of that playhouse very soon will be another important milestone in vaudeville's history.

Betsy Ross Chapter, D. A. R., Holds Interesting Meeting

A highly interesting and an instructive meeting of Betsy Ross chapter, D. A. R., was held Thursday afternoon October 11, at the home of Miss Elizabeth F. Swift, 23 Central street.

Presided over by the regent, Mrs. Edward S. Gould, the session which was the first of the season, was occupied with matters of importance throughout. State Regent, Mrs. James C. Peabody was present as guest of honor and addressed the daughters with a few remarks.

Mrs. Herbert G. Mank, acting chaplain of the chapter, paid a fitting tribute to the memory of Miss Henrietta Durant, who for several years had taken a prominent part in the activities of the chapter and also mentioned Mrs. Evelyn McMillan, who passed away last summer.

A feature of the meeting was a most interesting paper read by Mrs. William Howes of North Andover, who used as her subject "Some Colonial Homes of Andover." In it Mrs. Howes gave a very apt description of many of the fine homes which lie in and around Andover and North Andover.

An interesting report of the state convention held recently at the Ocean House, Swampscott, was given by Mrs. Edward F. Gould, Mrs. Henry Webster, Jr., and Mrs. Arthur Pallister. A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the coming season's celebration and comprised Mrs. Arthur Pallister, Mrs. Ida Blackwell and Mrs. Grace M. Zuber. Punchard in a Scoreless Game With Chelsea

Punchard High played a scoreless tie game with the strong Chelsea High on the Andover playground Saturday afternoon. Chelsea was penalized 65 yards during the game; four different times they were penalized five yards for offside and on two occasions five yards for incomplete forward passes and 25 yards for tripping.

Cotter, Chelsea right halfback made several good gains and was a hard man to down. Walker, Punchard's sturdy little quarter-back, played the same fast and snappy game. Allen showed a good game at right end.

Stowe Juniors Remain Undefeated

Two runs of 60 and 40 yards respectively, by Rondeau, star halfback of the Stowe Junior high team, and a line plunge for a touchdown by Captain Ray Gallant, gave that team an 18 to 6 victory over the Brookline school team of North Andover before a large holiday crowd at the Andover playground Friday afternoon.

The Brooks team scored first in the opening stanza when its backless halfback, the Andover line for 50-yard march and touchdown. R. Marvel went over from the 5-yard line.

The Stowe Junior team is still undefeated in two years of competition.

Excessive Trade Allowances in Motors not to be made

Pontiac, Michigan, Oct. 19 -Excessive trade-in allowances will no longer be made on General Motors' Trucks. This announcement, considered to be of far reaching importance, was made here today by O. L. Arnold, vice president directing sales of the company.

"This step is taken in line with the policy of the General Motors Truck Company, to advance the interests of truck users and the truck industry in every possible way," Mr. Arnold declared. "Our pledge to further Better Delivery—by which we mean all transportation by trucks—is something more than words," he said.

"We are suiting actions to words, with every facility at our command," as pointed by men who have given it most thought is that it works to prohibit the building into truck of real advanced equipment and betterments that would make for higher efficiency, and lower costs to truck users.

"When a truck buyer accepts, as an allowance on the old equipment he is trading in, more than the vehicle is worth, - as established by fair appraisal - he is contributing to a vicious chain of cause-and-effect that must finally be to his disadvantage," Mr. Arnold said.

Convinced that the greatest period of growth for the truck industry is at hand Mr. Arnold said, "the need has been vital for action that would end this unsound custom—by some company or group with the strength and facilities to do it effectively."

"We do not want or ask applause for our action," he declared, "to us it is the soundest kind of business—a duty, and a privilege we count ourselves fortunate to have."

"Our policy has always been to build extra value into our trucks rather than to count on making to our buyers the Indian gift of excessive allowance."

"With our increased range of new Buick powered trucks—including increased capacity models, recently announced, this policy is more than ever reflected in the complete line of General Motors Trucks we today present," he said. "Our equipment is priced on this basis and policy."

"The time was ripe for this move—and we were better than ever equipped to give it the greatest possible benefit for truck owners and our whole industry."

Taken to Hospital in Andover Ambulance

Two young men and their women companions were carried on a truck from their wrecked car at Carney corner, North Andover, in the early hours of Monday morning, to Andover, where they were transferred to the Andover Ambulance and rushed to the General Hospital. All four are now at the hospital recovering from multiple abrasions and body bruises.

The machine in which the four were riding crashed into a telegraph pole at 4:45 in the morning. The car was demolished and all four covered by the wreckage. When taken to the hospital, the injured gave their names and addresses as follows: Cecile Cruickshank, 22, of 243 South Union street, Lawrence; Ellen Whalen, 24, of 76 Batavia street, Boston; Joseph R. Fahey, 23, of 198 West Selden street, Mattapan; Conrad F. Bletzer, 26, of 38 Juniper street, Roxbury.

The North Andover police were informed by the men that all had been smoking in the sedan, and it was so dense that it was almost impossible to see ahead. The automobile was bound for Lawrence and was swinging off Osgood street, when it rammed the pole. Another few feet and the machine would have carried its four passengers up against a high stone wall. A passing truck driver picked up the injured and drove at top speed for Andover. All four were taken from the truck and placed in the Andover ambulance and were admitted to the emergency room in the General Hospital at 5:20 a.m. None were found to be seriously injured. They had suffered lacerations from flying glass and painful body bruises.

According to the story obtained by the North Andover police, the automobile left Boston at 3:20 a.m. and was bound for Lawrence.

Essex Poultryman Leads State

In the record of production contest for large flocks of 1,000 pullets or more, Homer Rowell, Groveland, leads the state. The average production per pullet is 146.6 eggs for the year.
William P. Foster, Andover, stands fourth, with an average production of 136.4 eggs per pullet.
In the medium-sized flocks, 500 to 1,000 pullets, A. S. Pendleton, Ballardvale, gets second place, with an average production of 149.2 eggs per pullet.
There are 18 poultrymen reporting from Essex County. It is gratifying to know that these men are doing so well.
The per cent production in the Rowell flock since November 1 was 53, in the Foster flock 50, and in Mr. Pendleton's 47.
Mortality in these flocks was below the State average of 12.8 per cent. Rowell's was 11 per cent, Foster's 7 per cent, and Pendleton's 9 per cent. The lowest mortality rate in Essex County was 2.6 per cent, reported by Hartwell Reid, Amesbury. His flock averaged 156.7 eggs per bird since November 1.

The Essex County Honor Roll for production per pullet is as follows: J. P. Bunker, Beverly, 163.9 eggs; Hartwell Reid, Amesbury, 158.7 eggs; A. S. Pendleton, Ballardvale, 149.2 eggs; Homer Rowell, Groveland, 146.6 eggs; and Stanley Roach, East Lynn, 146.2 eggs.

The Greatest Pianist of the Rising Generation

Heralded by European eulogiums in which he had been led as a superhuman combination of Einstein, Rosenthal, Padewski, Busca and about every other picturesque pianist of the past century, yesterday Vladimir Horowitz came to this country for his first tour last season under a tremendous handicap. The young Russian pianist confessed later that never in his twenty-four years had he been so nervous as tonight. January 12, 1928, when he walked on the stage of Carnegie Hall, past the p of the famous New York Philharmonic Orchestra, bowed to a jammed house filled with the world's most blasé audience, pepped with a celebrated group of already irritable and permanently "hard-boiled" musicians, and sat down before the piano to play the Tchaikovsky Concerto—his debut in America.

"The Hottest Welcome"
The avalanche of applause which crashed down upon him that night, and the papers the next day, the story of the "most successful concert artist to appear before the American public in a decade since the debut of Heifetz and Guller-Curci." It was recorded in the Olin Downes in the New York Times, "the wildest welcome a pianist has received in many seasons in New York—a whirlwind virtuoso interpretation, amazing technique, irresistible youth, electrical temperament."

During his first season Horowitz made thirty-six appearances in eighty-eight days, including nine performances with the Orchestra: New York Philharmonic, New York Symphony, and Philadelphia, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, and Boston Symphonies. No sooner was his second tour announced, limited by his European engagements to October 15, 19, to January 1, 1929, than it was immediately completely booked. Forty-five engagements in eighty-one days scheduled the maximum the young artist can accept in this time, including orchestra appearances with the Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia-Symphony, and Philadelphia Orchestras. Between middle of May, little more than a path after he had sailed, Concert Manager Arthur Judson was accepting offers for the season 1929-30.

Horowitz is an artist whose work is his story. His sensational success—and the adjective is used only because it is true—came of his music and out of nothing else. His career has been the logical development of an extraordinary gift and he had made his name in Europe sheer ability. The personality was exceedingly attractive but it was never "fitted up" by fictitious press operations. Whatever Horowitz has accomplished had been accomplished entirely by his art.

Born in Kif on October 1, 1904, of a well-to-do, artistically inclined Russian family, Vladimir Horowitz entered the Conservatory of his native city at an early age, studying under Professor Felix Blumenfeld and graduating with honors. His first public appearance was made in Kharof, a concert arranged by his uncle who was a famous music critic of that city. The first years of his professional career were spent giving recitals in the principal cities of his native land. During 1922-23, he played twenty-three times in Petrograd, to twenty-three sold out houses, at a time when a concert ticket was the greatest of luxuries. He was a pianist of the first rank, before the war, and the id of Russia, gave twenty concerts in Petrograd in one season!

World Triumphs
In 1924 Horowitz started a tour of Europe, beginning in Berlin, and conquering in rapid succession Germany, Holland, Italy, France, Spain, Belgium, and London. The season before he came to America he played eighty-eight engagements. Among his orchestra appearances were performances with Furtwengler in Berlin and Leipzig, with Carl Muck in Hamburg, with Molinari in Rome, Gaubert and Piere in Paris, Monteux in Amsterdam, Schaeffer in Scheveningen, Abendroth in Cologne, Clemens Kraus in Frankfurt, and Bruno Walter in Berlin. Critics like Henry Pruniere in Paris and Adolph Weissmann and Max Marschalk in Germany pronounced him "the greatest pianist of the rising generation."

America Conquered
Coming to America last season Horowitz triumphed over the local critics and thrilled each critic fumbling for new superlatives. In New York Lawrence Gilman stated in the Herald Tribune: "He has a leonine sweep and power, a conquering technique." Pitts Sanborn spoke in the Telegram of his "breath-taking talent and his striking sparks from the keyboard and the conflagration spread through the entire house." Philadelphia was equally bowled over. "A conquering king of the keyboard," said Linton Martin's characterization in the Inquirer; a "genius," proclaimed the Bulletin.

Conservatively Speaking
Arriving at the most conservative city in America, Boston, Horowitz caused the usually anathema audience to rise in derisive Plaudits. "There was," wrote Philip Hale in the Herald, "a scene of enthusiasm such as had never been witnessed by the performance of a pianist in Symphony Hall since its opening." The Globe story ran: "No soloist making a Boston debut within the last fifteen years has created anything like the sensation made by Horowitz. He made stories told of Liszt and Rubinstein rousing audiences to frenzied excitement credible. He has something of the almost uncanny personal force ascribed to Paganini—the most successful concert artist with the American public to appear in the decade since the debuts of Heifetz and Guller-Curci." "Horowitz," according to H. T. Parker in the Transcript, "has restored to the concert hall a style of piano-playing that audiences in two generations have scarcely known." When a Boston recital was announced two weeks later, the house was sold out within two days of the opening of the ticket sale. No newcomer since Guller-Curci has succeeded in filling Symphony Hall for a first Boston recital. Following that recital the Post agreed with the other papers that "Horowitz will henceforth be regarded as among the foremost of living performers."

"He Has It!"
Mentioning one more typical city as an example of Horowitz' unheard successes, we come to Chicago, which usually prides itself on reversing the judgment of New York. The American halled him as "the most amazingly legitimate sensation of the generation." Glenn Dillard Gunn in the Herald and Examiner found him "the greatest talent that has come out of Russia since Rachmaninoff." He has "it"—for his like one would have to go back to the early Padewski," announced Karleton Hackett in the Post.

There is little more to add except to emphasize that Vladimir Horowitz is first, last, and foremost, a musician, unspoiled by success, going steadily forward towards his own Utopian ideal of perfection, and that he will appear here on Thursday evening, November 15th at the George Washington Auditorium.

Vote for Hoover

There is a very important time coming when the votes will be put to a test. To see if the people of the U. S. A. Have all done their level best. In voting for a man that's been tested, That's done his duty no matter at what cost. Who brought bread to thousands of people. But for him, would all have been lost. It is more of a serious question. Than some of us think today. When we vote for a head of a nation To see, it's for a man of fair play. Let drink and religious bigotry Be cast out of the mind. And vote for the man who serves God And is willing to help mankind. For these are the real issues. That will count for everyone. So let's cast our vote November the 6th For Hoover, through what he has done. JANE E. BOOTH Hilden Road, Andover

Baptist Church Notes

The October meeting of the Ladies' Mission Circle of the Baptist church was held on October 11, with Miss Margaret Caldwell, in the midst of colorful autumn scenery.

As the Mission Study Book is on Africa, a varied program was presented by Mrs. Clare Norton, who took up some of the activities of the missionary in Africa. The closing section was a vivid and startling monologue, given by Mrs. Katherine Ward. It was entitled "If I were a woman in Africa," and set forth the arduous, back-breaking labors of the African woman, in field, woods, and house, often doing the heaviest man's work for her lordly husband. No one would choose to be a woman in Africa, but she is a woman for the word of help, which is taught by the mission workers.

All enjoyed a cosy time over the tea-cups. Last Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Davies, missionary of West China, occupied the pulpit. Calling attention to the fact that this is Loyalty Week, some Baptist churches, he stressed the sharp contrast between people in Christian and in non-Christian lands. He used six key-words in alphabetical order to help his audience realize many reasons for loyalty to Christ and also to sympathize with the unconquered Chinese, who are without these Christian qualities.

His six words are given here, but only a brief bit of his discourse under each. 1. Affection—the love we have for our God. Quite different from the feeling the Chinese have for their gods, which seems so remote that people ring a bell in the temples to get the gods' attention. 2. Brotherhood—while Christians love others, because of God's love for all, the people of China appear to think most about themselves and pray for their own needs. Their greatest need is for the love of Christ to come into their hearts. 3. Confidence—they have a fear of purgatory, and in the hour of death can only say, "It is the will of Allah, we must submit." But we have confidence in what Christ has done for us. 4. Dynamic—Jesus provided spiritual power to His own for victory over sin, and for service, but heathen religion cannot do that. Only Christ could empower the Chinese Christian who said in a meeting, "My husband does not strike me as much as he used to, and I do not aggravate him as much as I did." 5. Exaltation—Chinese can't have many thrills, as their religion is a matter of keeping rules. But Chinese Christians are filled with joy. 6. Fellowship—we have fellowship with Christ, we are under obligation to share it with others. Jesus Christ is Christianity, and gave His life for men and that is the message we have for the Chinese. We seek to cooperate with them as far as possible, in carrying out the purpose of the Lord for them.

If a dog suffers from some incurable disease or serious accident, we "put him out of misery," as we say, and think we have done a very humane thing. If a human being were in agony from an incurable disease and were begging to be put out of misery by painless death, we would deny him this from some unknown reason. Why the difference? Have we more consideration for a dog than for a human being? Not in Czechoslovakia, if the proposed legislation is passed. They plan to raise man up to the level where he holds a dog, and that may be a big step forward.

The Ball planned by the Andover Post of the American Legion for Armistice day, November 12, is to be a benefit affair entirely. The proceeds are to be turned over to the local Red Cross for Andover work exclusively. It is understood that this will help defray the expenses of our new social worker. The American Legion, in doing this charitable work, deserves the cooperation of every one in town.

Having just lived through a week in which a holiday occurred on a Friday,

Correction

The Townsman wishes to correct an error which inadvertently crept into the account of the work now being done in Andover by Miss Marion L. Smith, Social Worker. Miss Smith has been engaged and is being paid by the local chapter of the American Red Cross, to do social work in the town under the direction of the town officials and of the directors of the Andover Branch of the American Red Cross.

If the experiment proves successful, it is hoped that the citizens of the town will wish to take it over ultimately as a legitimate annual item of expense.

Pastors of State Will Make Appeal on Behalf on Golden Rule Sunday

Golden Rule Sunday—established and observed in 50 different countries in behalf of the orphan children of Bible Lands—offers an unparalleled opportunity for the ministers to help their people realize the greatness of Near East Relief as a notable project in practical religion, it is pointed out by Albert A. Scott, director of Near East Relief. President Coolidge, approving the plan, sees in it the means of improving international relationships. Thousands of pastors have promised to preach Sunday, December 2nd, which is the sixth annual Golden Rule Sunday, on the Golden Rule as exemplified in the work of Near East Relief, and ask their people to make an offering for the continued care of the orphan children of the Near East Relief.

Girls' Friendly Society Meeting

The regular meeting of the Girls' Friendly Society was held in Christ church parish house on Monday evening. The new president, Annette Anderson, presided and during the business, papers were read on Truthfulness, the best one of which will be read at the Neighborhood conference in Lowell on Saturday. Several of the girls are planning to attend this conference.

Gertrude Taylor, delegate to the Holiday house in Milford, N. H., read a paper on her vacation spent there.

Serving for the Lodge bazaar took up a portion of the evening and at the social hour refreshments of sandwiches, cakes and coffee were served, by Mrs. W. E. Howe, Martha Howe, Alice and Edythe Wrigley and Daisy and Emma Stevens.

Those interested on going on the hike Sunday afternoon, are asked to meet at Simeone's corner at 2.30 o'clock. The hike will be to the Indian Ridge reservation.

At a recent meeting of the Phillips Club, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Lester E. Lynde, president; Lester C. Newton, secretary; Frank M. Benton, treasurer.

Dr. Bowker Opens Lecture Course

Dr. John C. Bowker who opens the famous White Fund course in Lawrence on October 25, brings to his topic a wealth of experience in travel probably unequalled by any man in the world. He has leisurely visited 134 countries on all continents, sailed in 127 ships, lived in 993 hotels, circled the globe six times and still finds America the best place. His topic will be "Another U.S.A." and will be superbly illustrated with his original views.

Punchard Prepares to Meet Marblehead

The Punchard high eleven was given no rest this week after its game with Chelsea last Saturday. Coach Eugene V. Lovely realizes that a week of hard sessions must be put in before the coming game with Marblehead tomorrow. The latter aggregation is a hard one to beat and one that will outweigh Punchard.

The regular team has been sent through long signal drills with new plays being attempted. Many glaring faults were apparent in the game with Chelsea on Saturday past, although the suburban team held the opposition to a scoreless tie.

From now on the opposition facing Punchard will be the hardest that the Lovely-coached team has been forced to face in years, and if Punchard can come through with victories in half of them they will be doing well.

Members of the Clan Johnston, 185, O. S. C., will attend the installation of officers at the meeting of Clan McPherson in Lawrence this evening. The local clan meeting to be held in Fraternal hall Friday night will be at 7 o'clock.

reminds people that the convenience of all concerned, every holiday ought to be made to fall on Monday. The advantages are quite obvious.

We welcome Mr. H. Mason among the list of registered voters. Mr. Mason of Shawshnee is 31 years of age and his first presidential vote was cast in New Hampshire for Abraham Lincoln.

Many complaints have been made recently that platoon automobiles bearing the names of presidential candidates have been destroyed or stolen. Such acts are nothing more than shameful—the work of the most ignorant rowdies. Suppose a lot of football fans, supporters of a college team, should march across the field and attempt to tear the runners and arm bands from the supporters of the rival team. Poor sportsmanship is too mild a term for such conduct. It is true that there is much bitterness in this campaign but there should be a limit to the demonstrations. If we would take the attitude of the owner and see that acts of this nature are theft and willful destruction of property the practice might be stopped. Also, a few good "hidings" administered to the offenders might help.

Andover Natural History Society Meeting

The Andover Natural History Society conducted a meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. O. P. Chase of 85 Elm street. A special session was held at 7 o'clock when the members made a tour of the garden and collected insects, seeds and nuts. Later the collection was on display in the garage.

Following the display, the members adjourned to the house where they held a business session, after which an entertainment program was held as per schedule.

The program for the evening was arranged by the following committee: Mrs. Frank M. Foster, Mrs. Fred G. Cheney, Miss Alice Wear, secretary and Miss Florence L. Abbott who acted as timekeeper.

"Hoover, Master of Emergencies"

The tremendous task accomplished by Herbert Hoover in feeding the war-devastated and starving areas of Belgium and practically the rest of Europe during and after the war, is strikingly shown in "The Master of Emergencies," a moving picture story of the Republican nominee's life cut from ten miles of official film. The film, which was titled and arranged by Will Irwin, biographer of Mr. Hoover, comprises actual scenes of Mr. Hoover's work mostly taken during the last eleven years of his energetic career. There are graphic scenes of war-ravaged Belgium, thousands of undernourished children waiting in bread lines, pictures of Austrian peasants digging up roots for food. Many of the battle scenes in Belgium were taken under the most severe conditions of bombardment. Remote districts of Siberia and the wild Altai Mountains, peasants dragging Hoover food carts along frozen rivers, provisionladen camels in the snow, refugees fleeing the horrors of fire, starvation and pestilence Hoover restaurants dispensing food and health, and remarkable pictures of the Mississippi flood, all contribute toward the story of the tremendous work accomplished by Mr. Hoover during the war, when he is estimated that he saved at least ten million lives.

A big Republican rally will be held in the Town hall on Monday, October 22 at eight o'clock. Dr. A. E. Stearns will preside. The speakers will be Hon. Frank G. Allen, candidate for Governor; Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Congresswoman; Hon. B. Lorin Young, candidate for U. S. Senator; Thaxter Eaton and Attorney Arthur A. Thomson, candidates for Representative from sixth Essex District. There will be music by the Schubert Quartet and a community sing.

From 7 to 8 o'clock there will be a Torchlight procession, music by Arlington Mills band.

Sensational Quartet from Budapest

Andover is to hear a wonderful string quartet on Saturday afternoon of this week. This appearance here has been arranged with the greatest difficulty and through a combination of fortuitous circumstances. The story of the Roth String Quartet reads more like a fairy-tale than fact. A year ago Mrs. Coolidge, while on a visit in Europe, heard this string quartet in Budapest. Her reaction to their playing was immediate and vital. Mrs. Coolidge has heard the great quartets of the world; has brought them to her festivals in Pittsfield and Washington. She believes that the string quartet offers the perfect combination for the interpretation of what is purest and most significant in music. And when she heard this unheralded group of four artists, she recognized in them a quartet of artists perhaps unique in the world. She immediately arranged with them for an appearance at her Pittsfield Festival in September of this year. She assumed all their expenses from the time they left Europe until their return. No one knew anything about the Roth Quartet—but a miracle took place: a group of four young men took their positions on the stage of the South Mountain music shed, and played as though divinely inspired.

Inspired they must be, for the critics, than whom there is no body more difficult to move deeply, became immediately enthusiastic and finally extravagant in their appraisal. This enthusiasm was reflected in the reviews of the New York papers and musical magazines. Olin Downes wrote in the New York Times, "The Pittsfield Festival of 1928 became notable through the introduction to American audiences of a string quartet of the first rank, whose performances were received by a very critical audience with unstinted enthusiasm." In our own Boston Transcript, Mr. H. T. Parker wrote, "They (the Roth Quartet) had not played twenty measures before an expert audience set every listening faculty alert. Fifty measures more, and the newcomers were plainly possessed of the ordinary and the extraordinary virtues of quartet playing."

Last week at the Worcester Festival, one heard on all hands echoes of the triumph of this wonderful group. Their debut was continually being compared to that of the English Singers. The enthusiasm and response seems to have been equal and similar.

The Roth String Quartet returns to Europe on November first. They were unable to take more than a few engagements in the large Eastern cities. Andover is extremely fortunate to get this engagement.

Abbot Academy, in this her centennial year, is offering the Roth String Quartet of Budapest to our Andover audience, with the consciousness of offering a wonderful concert and in the hope that Andover will take advantage of its rare opportunity. The concert will be given in Davis Hall, Saturday afternoon, October 20th, at 3:00 o'clock. The price of admission is $1.50.

The Roth String Quartet consists of Feri Roth, violin, Jeno Antal, violin, Ferenc Molnar, viola, and Albert van Doorn, violoncello. The program will probably be the Mozart quartet in G major, Frank Brigid's last quartet, and the Beethoven quartet in E flat major.

Local Singers Heard on Board the Graf Zeppelin

Mrs. Alfred Harris, Miss Roxie Smith, Frederick Sjöström and George Leacock, accompanied by Gordon Brown were heard over the radio in an enjoyable program from Station WBZ last Saturday evening. Officials of the station have received notification that the program was enjoyed by those on board the Graf Zeppelin which was then somewhere over the Atlantic ocean.

Andover Junior C. E.

A meeting of the Andover Junior Christian Endeavor Union was held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Free Church. The meeting was opened with the singing of two hymns. Miss Clarabelle Mason read the Scripture lesson and Rev. Norman Bartlett led in prayer.

The business meeting was presided over by President Robert Stone. Margaret Laurie read the secretary's report, and the report of the treasurer was given by Dorcas Curley.

The work of the Publicity Committee was reported by the chairman, Margaret Fairweather.

The C. E. shield, for the society having the greatest number present, was awarded to the Free Church, whose attendance was 100 percent.

President Stone brought a suggestion from the executive committee that there should be a Book Reading Contest. Most of the books deal with the work of missionaries in all quarters of the globe. The plan was favorably received and the contest is to last until April 19, 1929. At that time the society whose members have read the greatest number of books will be awarded a picture of "The Boy Christ."

The union was honored by having Miss Marion Fernald, Interdenominational Christian Endeavor Superintendent of Essex County speak to it. Miss Fernald outlined the county program for the season, and suggested that Bible Study classes be formed.

After the formal meeting a social hour was enjoyed. The Free church society serving refreshments.

Andover Guild Directors Hold Meeting

The directors of the Andover Guild held their first meeting of the season Wednesday evening, October 10th, at the Guild House, with the new president, Arthur Sweeney, presiding. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read followed by a detailed report of the summer playground activities by the Guild superintendent.

Miss Davis stated that the Community Playground back of Stowe School was opened from June 25th to September 1st. She was assisted at the evening sessions by James Bisset who during June took intensive training in playground management at the Springfield Playground Institute.

Miss Davis expressed appreciation for the use of the Stowe School property and also for the splendid cooperation extended the playground by the Board of Public Works, Fire Department, and Police Department. She also mentioned the interest shown by Miss Goldsmith of the Townsman and Mr. Doherty of the Lawrence Tribune in their efforts to give publicity to the program. The neighbors were very kind and many parents regularly visited the playground, assisting in the program of games, handwork, stories, dramatics, singing, and various active stunts.

The special activities conducted during the season were two dramatic entertainments, a checker tournament, soap bubble contest, basketball throw contest, doll exhibition, still contest, pet exhibition, handwork exhibit and field day contests on the Playground.

It was impossible to keep accurate attendance though afternoon and evening counts were made averaging about 300 a day or 15,000 for the season. The majority of those frequenting the playground were under fourteen years of age though many older boys and girls attended during the evening hours. Miss Davis stated that the department was exceptionally good during the time of supervision.

There was not sufficient apparatus to accommodate all, though effort was made to take turns. Additional apparatus is needed for next summer, particularly as that used is badly worn. There were, however, no accidents aside from a few bumps and bruises.

The summary given was as follows: ten special activity days, seven showers by the Andover Fire Department, fifteen handwork projects, thirty-one stories, fifty-two games taught, eighteen quotation hunts, ninety-two entries on dramatic programs, sixty-one worked on playground scrap book, and fifty-seven did other handwork. The total registration entries for special activities and classes was 782.

After the conclusion of the playground report plans were made for the opening of the Guild November 1st.

Theatre Guild to Present The Doctor's Dilemma

Seats for the New York Theatre Guild Repertory Company's production of Bernard Shaw's "The Doctor's Dilemma," to be presented at George Washington Hall on Friday evening, October 26, are now on sale at the Andover Bookstore. When presented by the Theatre Guild in New York, the play received lavish praise from metropolitan critics and enjoyed a long and successful run. In inimitable manner Shaw hurls his ironic shafts at the medical profession, relentlessly caricaturing some of its distinguished members as gaudy charlatans. But doctors and their foibles, their failure to agree on diagnosis and method of cure, the ethics and morals involved in the discharge of their professional duties and obligations, witty, satiric, diverting as it is, constitutes merely the background of the play. The love story which runs through is one of the most beautiful, the most tenderly moving the great Irish playwright has ever written.

The production which will be seen here is under the direction of Philip Moeller, one of the directors of the New York Guild, with settings and costumes by Raymond Sovey, and the meticulous attention to all artistic detail which has given the New York Theatre Guild a distinctive position among producing organizations. The cast includes a number of well-known New York players.

The scale of prices, $2.00, $1.50, and $1.00, is unusually low for an entertainment of such quality. The same company is also appearing for several weeks in Detroit, and also in other cities of the east. This is an exceptional opportunity for the local audience to see one of the outstanding successes of last year's New York season.

Fr. F. S. Riordan, N. Y. to Hoosic Falls, New York

The people of the community of Greater Lawrence will be pleased to hear that Rev. Frederick S. Riordan, O. S. A., has fully recovered from his recent illness and has recently been assigned as pastor to Hoosic Falls, New York.

Fr. Riordan was pastor of St. Laurence's church in Lawrence for eight years, coming from the pastorate of St. Augustine's church at Andover, where he had been pastor for eight years. After the eight years at St. Laurence's, Fr. Riordan again became pastor at Andover, which charge he resigned by reason of ill health.

The many friends of Fr. Riordan will be pleased to hear of his restored health and his assignment to the pastorate at Hoosic Falls.

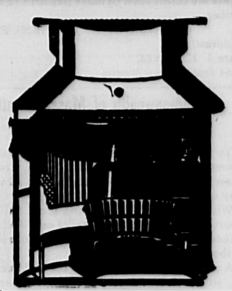

Stolen Car Burned

A Hudson coupe, registration D1117B was found badly burned on Gould road last week by the police. The car was stripped although the side lights were gone. It was comparatively new machine and was found to be the property of Harry Rosen of 24 Munroe street, Taunton. More Warmth—Less Fuel

Here's a Sunbeam Pipeless Furnace "cut in half". Note the unusually large heating radiating surface in the center. Note, too, the extra-large air-passing spaces around the heating parts. These features mean that a Sunbeam Furnace will give you more warmth from less fuel. Choose the Sunbeam and you'll be sure of complete winter comfort and lower fuel bills for years to come. We carry Sunbeam Furnaces in both Pipe and Pipeless Types. Come in. Let us give you an estimate.

Obituaries

ERNEST C. EDMANDS

Ernest C. Edmands of Carmel road died early this morning at the Shawheen hospital, following illnesses which have covered a period of 12 years. He was obliged to give up his work five months ago with the knowledge that there was no hope but he met the situation heroically to the end.

Mr. Edmands was born in Saugus on June 19, 1884, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Seymour Edmands. He was educated in the schools of that town, graduated from the high school and for a period attended the Massachusetts Agricultural College, later working on his father's farm. With a bent for mechanics he took a correspondence course in civil engineering and drawing and was given a position in the office of John Franklin during the reconstruction of Shawheen Village. At the time of his death he was employed in the Boston office of the Construction engineering department of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad. He was regarded by his superintendents as a trustworthy and efficient engineer and received promotion. He was of a quiet and retiring disposition but had made many friends both here and abroad.

June 24, 1903 Mr. Edmands and Mary C. Findley were married and last June they observed their silver wedding. Four children were born and three are alive. Jean, employed in Boston, Allan C., a senior at Puncard High school, and Chyn, a student at the John Dove school. Six brothers also survive him, Ellis L. Edmands of Rochester, Vt.; Nelson W. Edmands, Oscar Nelson, Elbert H. Edmands all of Holliston, Arthur S. Edmands of Saugus and Edward W. Edmands of Wakefield.

Mr. Edmands was interested in music and had been a member of the Free church choir and the choir of Christ Church. He was also a member of Andover Grange.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at the family home on Carmel road at two o'clock with services by Rev. Charles W. Henry, rector of Christ church, of which Mr. Edmands was a member, assisted by Rev. Frederick A. Wilson D.D., pastor emeritus of the Free church.

ORRIN MOORE

Orrin Moore, aged 60 years, died suddenly last Monday afternoon at the home of Albert Hardy, River road, following a heart attack. He came to Andover about 15 years ago from Maine and for the past two years has been employed as a farm hand for Mr. Hardy. Services were conducted last Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. Newman Matthews, pastor of the West parish church, who also conducted services at the grave in Spring Grove cemetery.

HONORA PAMELIA GLEESON

Miss Honora Pamela Gleeson, died early Wednesday morning at the home of her uncle, Joseph A. Gleeson, 52 North street, West Andover, following a long illness. She was 18 years of age and was a student at the Puncard high school up to the time of her illness. She was very prominent in school activities and was well liked by all her classmates.

To mourn her loss she leaves her mother, Mrs. Louis Sandner; one brother, Raymond F. Gleeson; three step-brothers, George, William and Louis Sandner, Jr.; one step-sister, Louisa Sandner; grandmother, Mrs. Honora Gleeson and two uncles, Joseph and James Gleeson.

Communications

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TOWNSMAN:

I should appreciate it if you could put the following considerations before the Andover Voters.

1. You, a voter, can bring pleasure to many, without any sacrifice on your part, if you will vote "YES" on November 6, on the Sunday Sports Referendum. You can help the people who want to go to Sunday afternoon baseball games. You cannot hurt the people who do not want to go. Very likely it is a matter of complete indifference to you personally whether there are Sunday afternoon baseball games or not. But many do want to go. Do you want to permit them to go if they want to? If you do want to permit them to go, vote "YES".

2. If you do not vote at all it means that you cannot decide whether you wish people to be prevented from following their own wishes in going to Sunday afternoon baseball games.

3. If you vote "NO" you join the group who like to tell other people what is not good for them.

4. Suppose the "commercial interests" were to stage a Sunday afternoon ball game next Sunday afternoon on regular week day prices, and suppose the weather were like a July day. Don't you honestly believe that thousands of happy people who work for the money they spend would stream to the field ready to pay the admission charges? Suppose a man with a sad face were to rush in and block the entrance and suppose he were to say the following words to the good people trying to pay their money and get in: "Do not go in and have a good time, friends, because you will be helping the profiteers. The wicked commercializers of Sunday are taking away your money. Because they are taking away your money and for other reasons, I vote 'NO'. I vote against allowing you to go in. I will not let you go in. I despise Sunday afternoon baseball games myself and I am going to keep you from going to them by voting 'NO', and believe me friends, I know what is good for other people."

4. If you do not want to be like that man with the sad face, vote a hearty and friendly "YES".

ONE WHO HAS NO FISH AT ALL TO FRY

TO THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN:

May I call the attention of all music lovers in Andover to the unusual opportunity to hear probably the most phenomenal pianist of the present day in the George Washington Auditorium on Thursday evening, November 15th. Vladimir Horowitz last winter, in the words of Philip Hale in the Boston Herald, created "a scene of enthusiasm such as has not been aroused by the performance of a pianist in Symphony Hall since its opening." In Europe the common question is: "Have you heard Horowitz?" Mr. Olin Downes in the New York Times referred to Horowitz's New York recital as a "whirlwind of virtuosic interpretation." Lawrence Gilman in the Herald Tribune referred to his "leoline sweep and power," and Mr. Henderson of the Sun called him "a Vulcan of the keyboard." Mr. Hackett in the Chicago Post says: "For his like one would have to go back to the early Paderewski." Some time ago one musician said to another regarding Horowitz: "He is certainly the coming Paderewski," to which the other musician replied: "He has more technique now than Paderewski ever had."

Horowitz is being brought to Andover at considerable expense, and it is hoped the Andover public will support the undertaking, as it deserves, to the extent of "standing-room only."

Andover Intermediate Union Meets

A meeting of the Andover Intermediate C. E. Union was held recently. The meeting was opened with the singing of two hymns. Miss Annabelle Mason read the Scripture lesson and Rev. C. Norman Bartlett led in prayer.

The business meeting was presided over by President Robert Stone. Margaret Laurie read the secretary's report and the report of the treasurer was given by Alaric Curley. The work of the publicity committee was given by the chairman, Miss Margaret Fairweather.

The J. C. E. shield for the society having the greatest number present was awarded to the Free church, which had 100 per cent present. President Stone gave the suggestion of the executive committee that a book reading contest should be held. Most of the books deal with missionary work all over the world. The plan was favorably received and the contest is to last until April 9, 1929. At that time the society whose members have read the most books will be awarded a picture of "The Boy Christ."

The Union was honored by having Miss Marion Fernald, Intermediate superintendent in Essex county as the speaker of the evening. Miss Fernald outlined the county program for the season and suggested that the Bible study classes be formed.

After the formal meeting a short social was enjoyed and the Free church society served refreshments.

Both of these affairs will be held on the third floor of the building while the fair is going on on the second floor.

Smith and Dove Wins Everett Game

Smith and Dove travelled to Everett Saturday and brought home a couple of points by defeating Beacon Oil Co., 4 to 1 in a Boston and District League game at Glendale park. Salisbury started the game and McFarlane's first attempt was a drive wide of the mark. The Doves pressed and McCullough made a great effort for Sullivan to come through with a grand save.

Some clever play by Low and McFarlane found the latter driving hard for Sullivan to save. Not to be denied McCullough received and gave Sullivan no chance as the ball flashed between the uprights.

Scott passed up a glorious chance in the next few minutes, driving wide of the mark with the goal open.

Beacon Oil attacked and Griffiths got in a good drive for Henderson to save. At the other end, Gentiles was pulled up in being offside which relieved for the homesters who got away only to see the Doves goalie come through with a clever save from Salisbury. McCullough missed a penalty kick.

Some clever playing by the Doves from line found Sullivan with much work to do, the goalie making some clever saves from McCullough. Scott increased the score when the Beacon defence bungled giving Smith and Dove a two goal lead.

Anderson got in a clever run, who served McCullough with a grand pass for the inside left to drive over the bar, while later, Sullivan fisted out from McCullough's line drive when half time was called with the Doves leading 2 to 0.

Gentiles restarted the game with the Doves pressing in the opening sessions but unable to lead Sullivan. Scott and Gentiles both making attempts. It was shortly after, Gentiles got through but was ruled offside.

The Doves were having much the better of play, hereabouts, Beacon Oil broke away and carried play to the Doves goal area where Norman was fouled and a penalty kick awarded, Salisbury making no mistake from the spot kick, and the score now stood 2 to 1.

Smith and Dove got busy again and after Sullivan came out to clear, McFarlane received to drive the ball between the uprights before the goalie could get back in position. It was a grand goal.

The Doves were now all over their opponents and the fans came in for some clever play from the Andover boys, but Sullivan played a sound game between the sticks which kept the scoring down.

Dave Gentiles kept plugging and was rewarded later when he slipped between the backs to beat Sullivan with a fast drive. McCullough hit the crossbar, while McCullough tested Sullivan before the finish. Time was then called with Smith and Dove winners by four goals to 1.

Boston & Maine Revenue Figures
The Boston and Maine Railroad in August earned a net income of $723,371, which compares with $785,229 in the same month last year.

There was a falling off of $69,380 in operating revenues, and increase of $99,450 in freight revenues having been more than offset by continued decline in passenger revenues which in August were $143,371 less than in August a year ago. For the first 8 months of 1928, it is stated, passenger revenues on the Boston and Maine have declined $1,164,301 compared with the same period last year.

Operating expenses were $23,164 greater than in August 1927, the increase being due to increased expenditures for maintenance of way and for maintenance of equipment, although a saving of $94,608 in transportation expenses brought down railway operating expenses as a whole.

Andover Association of Ministers Hold Meeting

At the regular meeting of the Andover Association of Ministers held in Trinity church, Lawrence, Tuesday forenoon, a paper was read by George B. Frost and followed by a discussion on the subject of "Behaviorism," it being a review of Dr. Dorey's book "The Nature of Man." No one frequenting these gatherings can fail to be impressed with the fact of the studiousness of the modern minister. No department of modern laboratory research escapes his scrutiny or fails to enlist his interest. Those who think of the minister as standing outside the great thought-currents of this modern world, bound hand and foot by traditional doctrines and reluctant to submit his convictions to the full blaze of scientific scrutiny, should attend one of their get-together meetings. They have an open mind at the same time a discriminating mind. While hospitable to all new facts, they dare to challenge many of the inferences drawn by modern psychologists from these facts; while receptive they are not gullible.

Wild and our laymen were equally discriminating.

Lawrence High 12—Andover 7

Not conceding a fighting chance, Lawrence high sprung the surprise of the current football season by sweeping Andover off its feet at Brothers field, Andover, Friday afternoon by the score of 12 to 7. The Lawrence stars came from behind to gather the laurels, thrilling the 6,000 spectators by as smooth an exhibition as a Lawrence high team has given in years.

Andover's only chance to entice came in the first few minutes when Johnny Broca, a L. H. S. alumnus, broke through to block Joe Bateman's punt and he ran across the line for the first points, to which another was added a moment later from placement.

The early reverse only served to arouse the Blue and White and from that moment until the close of the game, they gave no quarter. Outclassing Andover in every department with the single exception of kicking, Andover had an advantage in this.

The margin itself does not show the superiority of the Lawrence team. It was much better than the figures might indicate and in the fundamentals of the game was considerably better grounded than Andover. The offense plainly clearly put this way, Andover transgressing six times, one of which Lawrence rightly declined, and Lawrence only twice losing yardage because of violations, one of which was for a quarter. Andover although the teams stubbornly contested the whole way, they played cleanly and there wasn't a single penalty for roughness or the like.

The summary:
Lawrence 12 points
Andover 7 points

New England's Sportmen's Show

The States of New England, through their Fish and Game Departments, and undoubtedly all the Provinces of the Dominion of Canada, will again be officially represented in picturesque exhibits which promise to be one of the outstanding features of the greatest New England Sportmen's Show, to be held in Boston during the coming week. The show which was manifested in the Sportmen's Show of two years ago insures one of the biggest events viewed at Mechanics Building in years.

Scenes, sounds and odors to thrill every red blooded sportsman will be presented in a realistic setting. Everything that savors of the great open spaces and true sportsmanship will be in evidence, offering many enticing suggestions of life round the campfire, at Mechanics Building throughout the 10-day exhibition from January 16 to 26, 1929 inclusive.

This greatest exhibition of its kind ever presented in New England, under the personal direction of Chester J. Campbell, will have a two fold purpose; first, to present to the hundreds of thousands of sport enthusiasts from all over the East, a concentrated picture of the various activities associated with outdoor life, together with the newest and latest equipment and supplies for the use and enjoyment of sport devotees; and secondly, to stress the need for greater conservation and encourage the wider propagation of fish and game.

Occupying the entire floor space of Mechanics Building, more than 50 per cent of the exhibition area will be given over to special feature displays, each being arranged to have a maximum educational value. The ever increasing numbers who are added each year to the vast coterie of outdoor pleasure seekers bespeaks the greatest attendance that has ever entered the doors of Mechanics Building.

The Massachusetts Fish & Game division through its director, William C. Adams, has already filed acceptance of space, and in its exhibit will illustrate in a most comprehensive manner the extent to which the State of Massachusetts is bending its efforts to preserve the natural beauty and resources within the Commonwealth.

To add charm, fascination, and atmosphere to this tremendous indoor spectacle of natural beauty, carloads of genuine woodland background are now being collected for shipment to Boston. Great quantities of trees, bark, leaves, boughs, bushes, moss, and other bits of real woodland scenery are necessary to give the wonderful touch of reality that is depicted at this show.

The picture is made all the more realistic by the varied collections of wild animals, birds, and game, representing everything known to exist in this section of North America, that has an appeal to sportsmen.

This collection of animals and birds includes: beaver, bear, bob cat, deer, skunk, and moose; partridge, wild turkey, ducks, geese, snipe, foxes, rabbits, squirrels, and many others.

A. L. A. Approves New Law Sees no Hardship in it.

Officers of the A. L. A. refuse to be alarmed over the passage of a bill by the last Legislature to permit service of process on the Registrar of Motor Vehicles instead of personal service, according to William A. Thibodeau, General Counsel of that Organization. Mr. Thibodeau goes on to say, "This bill was designed to reach those careless or unscrupulous persons who either change their addresses without notifying the Registrar or who give false addresses. Each year hundreds of persons are unable to collect for damages for they are unable to get service on the party causing the damage because they are unable to place a false address. The new law does not place an unfair burden on any motorist as it should not make any difference to him whether notice of service on the Registrar is received by mail or whether it is left by a sheriff or constable in the mail box. In fact mail service in many instances is away he usually leaves a forwarding address, whereas if service is made by a constable it is not forwarded and many times the defendant does not return until after he has been defaulted."

"Furthermore," says Mr. Thibodeau, "the new law was not put over on the motorists. Everyone, including automobile clubs and associations had ample opportunity to acquaint themselves with its terms. Properly advised hearings were held before the Joint Judiciary Committee on February 9 and before the House Ways and Means Committee on March 8. Certainly the Legislature cannot be accused of using stalling methods, and any statement made by any motoring organization to the contrary is incorrect."

ASPECTUALLY I believe and represents Katharine W. Lane of North Andover in said County, that she was lawfully married to William J. Lane now of parts unknown at North Andover the 8th day of October A.D. 1903, and thereafter your libellant and the said libellee lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth to wit, at said North Andover, that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage vows and obligations, but the said libellee being wholly regardless of the same at said North Andover on or about the tenth day of September A.D. 1910 utterly deserted her and has continued such desertion from that time to the date hereof, being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Your libellant further alleges that neither the libellee nor the libellant have filed a petition for divorce, nor have they been a party thereto, that no petition or libel for nullity or petition for separate support has been brought by either of the parties.

AVERAGE RENTS DECLINING ACCORDING TO ROGER W. BABSON

He Shows that Greatest Stability is in East and South — Points Out Advantages of Owning a Home in Preference to Renting — Important to Own Home Within Means — Trend Toward Apartment Living

Babson Park, Massachusetts, October 19, 1928.

"Statistics clearly show that rents for the country as a whole are declining. Nation wide averages show a drop of slightly over 4 per cent from July 1927 to July 1928. Moreover, they indicate an accelerated rate of decline this year compared with the two previous years. Compared with the post-war peak of 1924, residential rents are now about 13 1-2 per cent lower, according to information gathered by the National Industrial Conference Board. Conditions in the individual localities may differ from these figures which are national averages; but the general tendency of rents of small houses and apartments, such as are occupied by families of moderate means, is definitely toward lower levels.

"Out of 180 cities, 123 show no rent change from last year, 47 show decreases, and only 10 show increases. Geographically, rents appear most stable in the East and South. The majority of the cities in these sections show no change from last year. Even in these steadier sections, however, there are more cities showing decreases than there are increases. The greatest changes seem to be taking place in the Middle-West. Here, out of 68 cities, 42 showed no change, 22 showed declines, and 4 advances. In the far West the majority showed no change from last year, but there were increases in 4 cities compared with decreases in 3. These reports indicate that the downward movement is gradual rather than violent, but is broad and fundamental. Furthermore, they show clearly that the supply of small houses and apartments has caught up with the demand, and in some instances has considerably exceeded it.

Trend Toward Apartment Living

"Advocates of renting point to the lower figures at which suitable accommodations can now be obtained, also call attention to the ease of living in heated apartments. Undoubtedly they have their appeal to many people. In fact, the Department of Labor shows that during recent years there has been a very rapid growth of apartment house living in American cities. Nearly 60 per cent of our families are now housed in apartments, or two family houses, compared with 40 per cent six years ago. We are indeed becoming a nation of cliff dwellers. In spite of the great number of single family houses that have been constructed in the past six years, the fact remains that proportionately we are today far more a nation of renters than home owners.

Cheaper to Own or Rent?

"The stopping of the mad upward rush of rents and in many instances the reversal to lower levels, revives the old question of whether it is better for the average man to own his home or rent. There is probably no question that comes up for more frequent discussion between husbands and wives in America than whether it is cheaper and better for them to build or buy their own home, or to rent. Certainly, if there are children in the family it is a question of extreme importance. There are those who believe firmly that it is cheaper for them to rent than to buy or build. However, for the same quality of accommodation that is being rented the cost of owning a home has repeatedly been demonstrated to be lower. Of course, if one is paying rent which would be about right for a $6,000 house and compares this rent with the cost of owning a house worth $15,000, he will find that the latter is higher. If, however, he is content to build or buy more nearly in keeping with the value of the house he has been renting, he will find in the long run that he is better off to own than rent. Let us take, for example two young couples with incomes of $3,000 a year. One is a renter and the other is a home owner. Assume that both houses are worth $8,000. The landlord must get 10 per cent gross, or $800 a year if he is to make a profit on the rented house. This means $67 a month rent. That is all he has to pay, the landlord takes care of repairs, taxes, etc. Now, let us consider the owner of an $8,000 house. He must consider the interest on his own capital as well as on borrowed capital because if it were not tied up in the house it could be drawing interest elsewhere. His interest charges at 6 per cent amount to $480, taxes and insurance about 2 per cent amount to $160. The taxes, of course, will vary somewhat in different localities, but 2 per cent is a fair average. One per cent should take care of upkeep and repairs; this would amount to $80. These charges together will amount to $720, equivalent to $60 a month. It may be argued that houses depreciate in value, in spite of adequate repairs, because of changing styles of architecture or other factors causing obsolescence. As a matter of fact, however, the history of the past fifteen years has been one of increasing real estate values. Some of the earlier type houses may not be so much in demand, but the great increase in the value of the land in most instances will be found to have far more than offset any decline in the value of the house. There is just so much well situated land in this country—there can never be any more. Consequently, if the prospective home owner selects his location with an eye to the future growth of the community he will find his investment in a home fifteen years from now one of the best that he could have made.

Other Advantages of Home Ownership
"The question of cost alone, although it works out to the advantage of the home owner, is not the only consideration. There are other advantages. The desire for ownership of land is a natural heritage of the American people. It is an inborn desire in most of us handed down from our ancestors. In the old days land was practically the only form of investment. Stocks and bonds were practically unknown except to a very few. Land was the chief commodity, the subject of most trading, the thing most coveted and nearest to our great grandfathers' hearts. It is only natural, therefore, that we should have deep within us a longing to own a piece of it and to have our own home on it. Also the development of our children depends much upon their surroundings and the sense of freedom and independence which home ownership gives. These are all advantages to the individual. From the national standpoint, from the standpoint of good citizenship and community development, the advantages of individual home ownership can hardly be over-estimated. Business by the Babsonchart now stands at normal."

Style Expert Calls Buick New Model

City motorists touring the country often are amazed at the quick adoption of the latest style in dress in even the more remote sections. Easily explained. As the motor car has pushed back confining horizons and broadened communication, so has the motion picture broken down provincial isolation and brought the world all dressed up to parade before "rural" eyes.

Hollywood broadcasts the styles with meticulous authority. Hollywood, besides contributing its own creative ideas, maintains intimate contact with European style centers to gather, months in advance, the coming changes in modes.

How seriously Hollywood regards its responsibility in the matter of style portrayal is shown, for instance, in the frequent trips abroad of Travis Banton, creator of fashions at the Paramount studio. He has just returned from Paris, London, Vienna and like centers, conferring with other famed authorities who are contriving the new in line and beauty. So Banton knows what is what and what is to be. And his translation of styles to the screen carries to every section of the world.

"Fashions of the immediate future will accentuate curves, spelling the downfall of the popular straight lines with which we have so long been familiar," says Banton. "We are definitely entering a new style era."

"That the change will affect motor car styles as well as dress is shown in the new Silver Anniversary Buick, which already has captured the idea and boldly broken away from the lines of yesterday."

The Paramount style expert was viewing a new Buick sedan, critically sizing up the contours, increased body room, luxury in appointments and the striking effect of the advancement into the new vogue.

"It is most interesting that artisans in metal can achieve such striking effects in the very latest fashion trend. It is a tribute not only to American designers but also to the spirit of progress which seeks the new. Style evidently is a powerful factor today in motor cars. No longer are the makers content with providing transportation alone. I glory in this recognition of style importance."

"There always is an added distinction in being first. That is one of the rewards of creation. I appreciate what a pride Buick must have in its latest achievement."

Dancing Tonight at Essex Hall

What made the Balmoral Gardens so popular a rendezvous for Greater Lawrence dance enthusiasts during the past summer? The answer is easily forthcoming—Roland Russell's Ramblers. This organization has a tremendous following, a select throng of people who are particular and who will undoubtedly follow the Ramblers to Essex hall, where they will play tonight and tomorrow night. Essex hall is now operated for the first time in its history by the Balmoral Associates, Inc., owners and operators of Roseland and the Crystal ballroom. Admission dancing prevails at Essex, with free checking an added feature.

The Jersey Jic-Jacs, who established a local record for out-of-town appearances last summer, are playing at the Crystal ballroom tonight and tomorrow night. They, too, have their following and it must be said that they never played better than they did at Crystal last Saturday. They will receive a hearty welcome there any time they play. There, too, admission dancing prevails and checking is free of charge. Indications are that Crystal will surpass even last year's great attendance record.

Andover and Tech in Soccer Draw

The M. I. T. freshmen and Andover Academy soccer teams fought each other to a nothing to nothing tie Saturday on the Tech field.

Tech opened strong and Chultz narrowly missed a goal. Andover came right back and only a fine stop by Lule, the Tech goalie, prevented a score by Clark. In the second half Andover again threatened but failed to score and the game ended with the ball being booted around in midfield. The work of Fragarome, Scotty, Vlez and Clapp stood out for Tech, while Clarke and Fawcett led the Andover attack.

St. Augustine's Notes

The Holy Name society of St. Augustine's parish received Holy Communion in a body at the 8:45 o'clock mass Sunday morning.

The Sunday evening services and October devotions were held in the upper church at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. Charles A. Branton, O. S. A. pastor, preached the sermon.

Devotions in honor of St. Therese will be held this evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The Boy Scouts of Troops 6, 7 and 8 held the opening rehearsal Sunday afternoon for an entertainment which they will present in the near future.

The young lady graduates of the parochial school will meet Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the school hall.

A 12th anniversary requiem high mass was offered Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock for the repose of the soul of the late John McCarthy.

Auto Race Enthusiasts Delayed by Accident to Freight

The special train from Boston bound for the automobile races at the Rockingham Speedway at Salem, N. H., on the holiday was delayed when an accident happened to a heavy freight train. A draw bar on the tender was broken and the long freight of 100 loaded cars was left to block the progress of the other trains while the engine went to Lawrence to be repaired. Returning in about half an hour it was unable to proceed. Another freight of 95 cars was halted behind it.

The Rockingham special was then forced to back up to Ballardvale and switch over to the south-bound track in order to proceed to Lawrence. It was delayed about half an hour but reached Rockingham in ample time for the race.

Andover People Going to Florida

St. Petersburg, Fla., Oct. 19 (special) Andover's colony of winter visitors who will spend the season here in the sub-tropics far away from the rigors of the cold months, will be considerably enlarged when additional numbers will come here in the Fall and Winter to enjoy the warm sunshine and the many tourist recreations.

Scores of reservations from Andover residents have already been received for the season now on, most of them coming south by automobile, while later arrivals will come by rail.

Andover residents who spent the winter here last season included Benj. R. Bradley, 15 High street; Mrs. John N. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smith, 73 Elm street.

Many new attractions have been provided for winter visitors by wise city fathers, including additional game facilities, such as two new golf links, tennis courts, roque and lawn bowling links, shuffle board lanes, horseshoe pitching and quail courts, trap-shooting ranges and archery lanes.

Moses famous concert band has been engaged for a twenty week season beginning with December first, and continuing through into April. They will give free programs twice daily in picturesque Williams Park.

Fifteen amateur and professional golf tournaments have been arranged for the season, the first events to be held next month.

Indications that many Andover residents plan spending their first season here is evidenced by the numerous requests made of the local Chamber of Commerce for the new illustrated booklet, descriptive of the famed Sunshine City and its surroundings, which is being mailed free to those writing for it.

Sun bathing, the new health vogue, inaugurated here two years ago by social leaders, will continue in greater popularity than ever before, to indulge in the invigorating and healthful sunbathing.

Two solariums have recently been erected on the Tampa Bay beach by the city, and two large private institutions are now in the course of construction on Gulf Islands.

All free public schools and the Junior College are open for the season in which sixty-three percent of the enrollment already consists of the children of winter visitors.

Ninety-six yachts and house boats have arrived in the three yacht basins and that number is expected to exceed 600 before the season's peak is reached. Tourist experts predict that a quarter million sojourners will spend the season here.

Entered for Hospital Work

Miss Jessie M. and Miss Marjorie B. Bissett, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Bissett of 98 North Main street, who recently entered the Training School for Attendant Nurses conducted by the Household Nursing Association of 222 Newbury street, Boston, have just completed their six weeks training at the school and have now entered the Marlborough Hospital at Marlborough, Mass. for 10 to 12 months of hospital work.

The course which they are receiving, trains its students to be able not only to perform sick room duties but to prepare and serve proper food. Graduates of the school are assured work, if they wish, through the registry conducted by the Household Nursing Association.

No, Panama Hat Isn't From Panama at All

One of life's little oddities is that the country which gives its name to the Panama hat doesn't make the hat at all. And the Panama isn't a straw hat, properly speaking.

The hats are made from the shredded leaves of a species of small palm which grows almost entirely in countries south of Panama. Ecuador, Peru and Colombia are among the principal producers.

The young leaves are cut, dipped in boiling water and bleached before the women who weave them begin work. The hat is not woven under water, as is commonly believed, although water does play a part in the process. Usually the weavers begin work early in the morning, to keep the shreds from drying and to keep their fingers constantly damp, an essential factor in handling the strips. A weaver will spend as much as three weeks in making a single hat. However, the time is profitably spent since a genuine Panama will sell for $80 or more in its native land—and will cost much more before it reaches you.

Canal Zone Line Test of One's Equilibrium

You can buy whole coconuts for a nickel from street vendors on both sides of "Fourth of July avenue," nickname for the street in Balboa, Canal zone, that divides the staid, Puritan, prohibition Yankee quarter from the exotic old town of Panama.

Across the center of this famous thoroughfare lies a line. On one side of the street is Old world comfort. On the other is the strictest of American discipline. On both sides there is discipline as far as sanitation is concerned, due to the activities of soldiers, whom your buggy driver tells you "must" clean the streets for everybody else.

It is said to be a test of one's equilibrium to try and walk right along the straight and narrow line that separates Panama from the Canal zone, without flinching, to either side.

A Mother's Love

A father may turn his back on his child, brothers and sisters may become inveterate enemies, husbands may desert their wives, wives their husbands, but a mother's love endures through all; in good repute, in bad repute, in the face of the world's condemnation, a mother still loves on, and still hopes that her child may turn from his evil ways and repent. Still she remembers the infant smiles that once filled her bosom with rapture, the merry laugh, the joyful shout of his childhood, the opening promise of his youth; and she can never be brought to think him all unworthy.—Washington Irving.

Must Know Rural Sociology

The training of rural school teachers is not greatly different from the training of any other teacher. The technique of teaching reading is exactly the same in the rural school as in the village school, and this applies to all other subjects.

The social atmosphere of the rural school is somewhat different from that of the village school and always will be. The teacher in the rural school should understand and appreciate rural sociology. — Successful Farming.

PLUMBS TAKE LEAD

Win Four to Break Tie With Squares Levels Set New Team Total and R. Hardy Makes Records

Four points from the trowels sent the Plumbs into first place in the Square and Compass club league Tuesday night, the new leaders winning by 94 pins. J. P. Christie rolled 104 and 300 while R. Baker of Trowels hit 108 for high single.

The Levels went along smoothly for a new team total 1643 and that was enough to take four points from the Squares. Roy Hardy set new marks of 119 and 322. Harry Wadman had 118, 291.

The Compasses with only three bowlers dropped four to the Gavels who advanced to second place. Neilson was high with 105 and 302 while John Carse rolled 101 and 292.
